Administrative Information

Provenance

The Pennell-Whistler Collection was received by the Library of Congress through gift, transfers, and purchases, 1917-1992, including from Joseph Pennell and Elizabeth Robins Pennell.

Processing History

The collection was processed in 1980 and revised in 1998 to reflect a temporary rehousing of material being treated for preservation. At the time, certain containers were given alphabetical designations that have since been renumbered. This renumbering and other changes to the collection and the finding aid were made in 2009. The finding aid was revised again in 2013.

Other Repositories

Other collections of Pennell-Whistler material are located in the Freer Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C., and the Library of the University of Glasgow, Glasgow, Scotland.

Related Material

Related collections in the Library of Congress include graphic works by Pennell and Whistler in the Prints and Photographs Division. The National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections entry 62-2024 contains a list of James McNeill Whistler items in the Library's Rare Book and Special Collections Division. Included among these are the manuscripts of The Gentle Art of Making Enemies, Etchings & Dry Points, Venice, second edition, as well as correspondence.

Copyright Status

The status of copyright in the unpublished writings of Pennell-Whistler Collection is governed by the Copyright Law of the United States (Title 17, U.S.C.).

Scope and Content Note

The professional and personal papers of Joseph and Elizabeth Robins Pennell, together with those of their close friend James McNeill Whistler, collected over a period of fifty years (circa 1885-1935), form a rich source of information concerning the personalities, artistic climate, and mores of the period. The papers in their totality contain the most comprehensive existing record of Whistler's career. They span the years 1597-1937 and are organized into fifteen series: Whistler Correspondence; Typescripts of Whistler Correspondence; Whistler and His Circle; Miscellaneous Whistler Manuscripts; Anna Matilda Whistler Papers; Whistler Printed Matter; Pennell Correspondence; Pennell Correspondence Relating to Whistler; Joseph and Elizabeth Robins Pennell Correspondence; Book, Article, and Lecture File; Pennell Miscellany; Charles G. Leland Papers; Additional Papers of Joseph and Elizabeth Robins Pennell; Additional Miscellany, and Oversize.

The papers are separated into two major groups, one of Whistler and the other of the Pennells. The Whistler segment consists of original copies of Whistler correspondence, legal papers used in the famous Whistler-Ruskin trial, papers concerning the abortive Whistler memorial, and an extensive file of newspaper clippings relating to Whistler that date from 1847 to 1937.

Perhaps the most outstanding group of Whistler letters written to one person is that addressed to David Croal Thomson of London, when the latter was arranging the 1892 Whistler exhibition in the Goupil Gallery that brought the artist wide recognition. The letters show the infinite care taken by Whistler in assembling the exhibit, writing the catalog, designing the poster, and in general, supervising the entire exhibition.

The diary of Anna Matilda Whistler, the subject of Whistler's Arrangement in Grey and Black, for the year 1850 is included in the papers, as well as her letters to various friends.

The Pennell portion of the papers (roughly half the collection) contains letters received by the Pennells, with an occasional draft of the Pennells' reply. In addition to approximately four hundred letters written to the Pennells by James McNeill Whistler, the correspondence includes substantial groups of letters from such eminent figures in the world of arts and letters as Elmer Adler, J. M. Barrie, Paul Wayland Bartlett, Ford Madox Brown, Timothy Cole, Royal Cortissoz, Walter Crane, John F. Flanagan, Cass Gilbert, Edmund Gosse, Childe Hassam, Henry James, Robert Underwood Johnson, John Lane, A. Edward Newton, Agnes Repplier, Alice Caldwell Hegan Rice, Auguste Rodin, William Edwin Rudge, Linley Sambourne, John Singer Sargent, and John Charles Van Dyke.

However, the major part of this correspondence deals with Joseph Pennell's publishers, the art galleries that handled the sale of his lithographs and etchings, and the various museums in the United States and abroad that exhibited his works. The correspondence also contains an interesting record of art work in the field of government propaganda during World War I.

A separate series of Pennell letters in bound volumes, Pennell Correspondence Relating to Whistler, closely parallels the general correspondence described above.

Letters exchanged between Joseph Pennell and his wife, Elizabeth Robins Pennell, are grouped separately and cover the years 1883-1923.

The fecundity of Pennell's work in the field of graphic arts was matched by his literary production. In addition to the original manuscript and research notes of his magnum opus, The Life of James McNeill Whistler (written in collaboration with his wife), there are manuscripts and galley proofs of many of his other books. These are supplemented by a file of his articles and lectures.

A somewhat unrelated appendage to the collection is the group of Charles G. Leland papers. Leland (1824-1903), an American author and philologist, was an uncle of Elizabeth Robins Pennell. These papers, which cover the years 1835-1902, present a delightful picture of this cognoscente's extensive travels and studies in Europe and were the source materials for Elizabeth Robins Pennell's two-volume biography of Leland.

A significant addition to the papers was made in 1978 by Peter H. Davidson & Company, Inc., consisting mainly of correspondence received by Elizabeth Robins Pennell over the years 1884-1936. Among the major correspondents within this group are Paul Wayland Bartlett, Royal Cortissoz, John F. Flanagan, Rodman Gilder, Marie Belloc Lowndes, Agnes Repplier (over one hundred letters), Cale Young Rice, and May Sinclair.

A second addition to the papers consists of a letter of 1903 from Frederick Henry Evans to Joseph Pennell concerning photographs Evans took of Aubrey Beardsley.
