Picture Section.
Rotogravure: Part 4

The New York Times

Sunday.
October 15, 1916

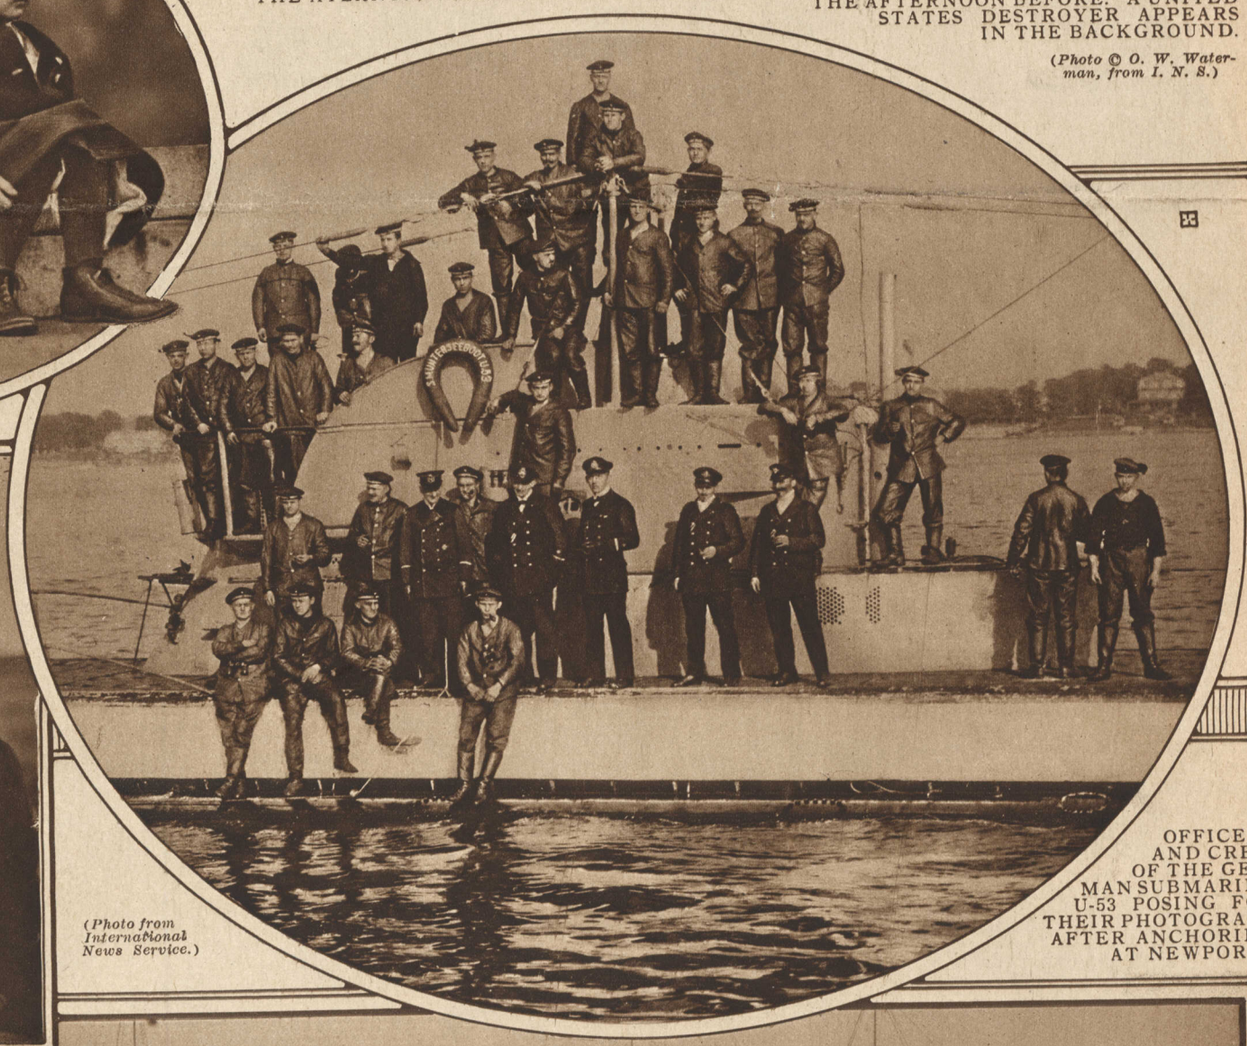
GERMAN SUBMARINE U-53, WHICH PARTICIPATED IN THE SINKING OF SIX SHIPS OFF THE ATLANTIC COAST ON LAST SUNDAY, LYING AT ANCHOR IN NEWPORT HARBOR ON THE AFTERNOON BEFORE. A UNITED STATES DESTROYER APPEARS IN THE BACKGROUND.

(Photo © O. W. Waterman, from I. N. S.)

MISS LOUISE HOWLEY,
A Survivor of the Stephano, Wearing the Life Belt in Which She Was Rescued.
(Photo © by Underwood & Underwood.)

CHILDREN RESCUED FROM THE STEPHANO. They Are, Left to Right, Sara Rome, Gordon Driscoll, and Joan Kain.
(Photo by Central News Photo Service.)

CAPT. HANS ROSE, Commander of the U-53.
(Photo from Central Press Photo Service.)



(Photo from International News Service.)

OFFICERS AND CREW OF THE GERMAN SUBMARINE U-53 POSING FOR THEIR PHOTOGRAPH AFTER ANCHORING AT NEWPORT.

GROUP OF SURVIVORS OF THE S. S. STEPHANO, TORPEDOED AND SUNK BY THE U-53 ON LAST SUNDAY AFTERNOON. LANDED SAFE IN NEWPORT BY THE U. S. DESTROYER BALCH.
(Photo from Central News Service.)