

New Blooms To Be Shown at the Fourth International Flower Show Next Week at Grand Central Palace.

Mrs. Morefield Storey, a rose cultivated by A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.

Lily Speciosum, white spotted with brown.

Mrs. Bayard Thayer, pink rose cultivated by A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.

Bird of Paradise, cultivated by G. E. M. Stump. Upper leaves are orange; pencil like middle portion is blue purple and large lower portion light green. Photo by Bradley & Merrill.

Orchid cultivated by Clement Moore, an amateur, in his Hackensack (N. J.) conservatory.

Amaryllis, "Claribel E.," cultivated by Mrs. D. Willis James at Madison, N. J. Dark red petals, inside greenish yellow. Photo by Edwin Levick.

Leonidas hydrangea, pale pink and pale green shading to white. Photo by Edwin Levick.

Hardyana orchids—Aureas and Gigas blossoms. Brilliant range centres. Some have light blue and white petals. Purple and yellow lower lips are characteristic.

Brasso—Cattleya orchid, Empress of Russia. Petals with carnation like edge. Cultivated by Julian Roehrs.