

Left—As Mayor Mitchel, opening the new Aqueduct, said "I now turn on the water" the rain came down in torrents.

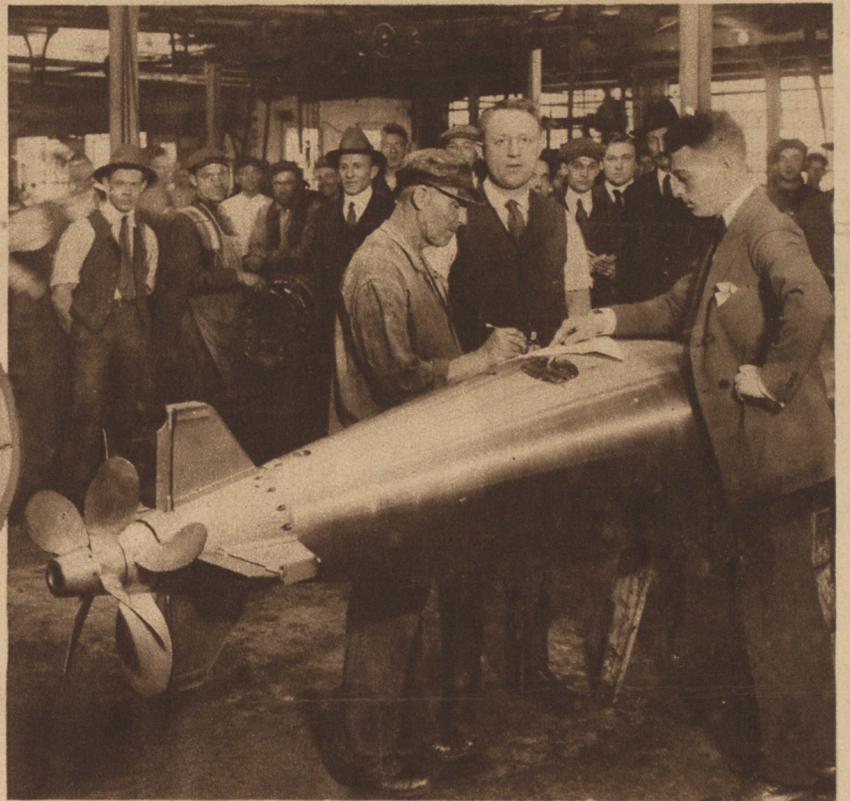

Bombs (circled in white) falling on Trieste. The photograph was taken by the observer in the raiding Italian aeroplane. K. A. H.

Right—$2,000,000 in government grain destroyed when the huge elevators of the Dow stores, in Brooklyn, burned last

Above—President and Mrs. Wilson showed great interest in a recent demonstration by army engineers near Washington of the various activities of modern warfare. Harris & Ewing.

Right—Harry Lauder, famous Scotch comedian, enjoys the world series from the front line of "trenches." Bain News Service.

Right—Doing a double share. This workman is signing an application for Liberty bonds on a torpedo he has just put the finishing touches to.

A truckload of Liberty bonds ($30,000,000 worth) ready for delivery. The finely engraved and richly printed sheets are the result of weeks of careful preparation and toil. International Film.

Right—French nurse in the corridor of St. Sulpice, Paris, selling a hat, part of the uniform of a captured German colonel of the Death's Head Hussars. Nadel & Herbert.

Right below—Captain Georges Guynemer, great French aviator, taken just before he started for the enemy's lines on his last flight. Underwood & Underwood.

Right—Not the latest in nose bags, but a gas helmet for horses. Both men and horses wore gas masks in the recent military efficiency competition at Aldershot. Western Newspaper Union.

