

A sector of the Harlem front during the recent offensive. Infantry supported by a French "75." Note equipment of trench helmets.

Bringing in a Boche patrol. The second prisoner from the left, with the dejected air, is suspected of being the Crown Prince in disguise.

THE WAR
IN THE
BACK LOTS

Photographs ©
Underwood & Underwood.

The same outpost may be used for watching an enemy plane or a ball game.

Over the top.

The colors.

Hurling grenades from a tank. A recent development in military tactics.

A remarkable photograph taken from a German prisoner showing the Harlem Highlanders, with gas masks, in the act of storming an enemy trench.