

President Wilson returns to his own and Boston accords him the greatest reception the Hub has ever known

The George Washington, carrying more than 2,000 troops as well as the Presidential party, entering Boston harbor, shepherded by a half dozen destroyers, at dawn last Monday.
Keystone View Company

Boston breaks through its crust of reserve and plays the generous host in a truly heart-warming welcome to our returned Crusader. The greatest crowds Boston has ever witnessed greeted President Wilson after his three months in Europe.

Above to left—President and Mrs. Wilson at Mechanics Hall.
Underwood

President Wilson on the steps of the Copley Plaza. Mayor Peters of Boston (right), Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts (left, tipping hat) The home guardsman seems to realize the full importance of his post.
Keystone View Company

Above to right—President Wilson on the bridge of the coast guard cutter Ossipee.
Underwood

