

The beautiful Arc de Triomphe in Paris, built to immortalize Napoleonic victories, is witness to-day to the march of victorious young Americans parading down the historic Champs Elysées.
Keystone View.

Secretary of Agriculture David F. Houston (standing) assists at the planting of the first memorial tree in Washington on the beautiful grounds of the Department of Agriculture, in honor of the Department's soldier dead.
Paul Thompson.

From the ruins left by the Boche the American Red Cross has restored this little home at Quiviere, in the Somme, giving the French peasant owner new life and the courage to begin again.
A. N. Mirzoeff.

One of Britain's super-dreadnoughts, H. M. S. Warspite, visits Plymouth, England. Note the aircraft mounted on both fore and aft gun turrets, from which they were launched at sea.
Underwood & Underwood.

Wilbur Forrest, Tribune correspondent, spans the nations of Europe behind a frontier boundary post—one foot in Belgium and the other in Luxemburg.
International Film Service.

