

Albeit in Germany and far from home, it's a charming scene which the doughboy contemplates—the turreted castle (now headquarters for the Fourth Army Corps) on its hilltop above the steep-banked Moselle, with the little town of Cochem spread below like a toy village. Underwood & Underwood.

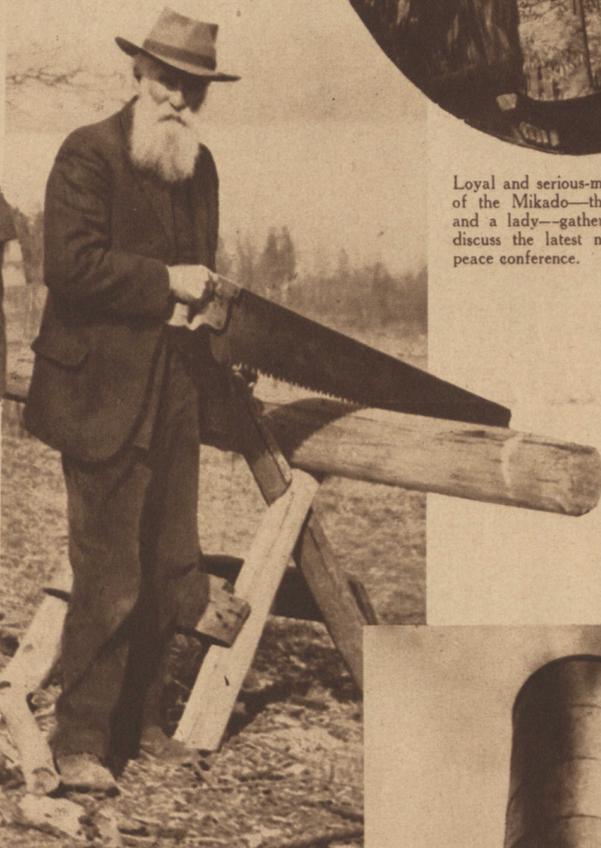

Loyal and serious-minded subjects of the Mikado—three gentlemen and a lady—gather to read and discuss the latest news from the peace conference. Keystone View.

First post-war tourists in Germany are the boys of our army of occupation interested visitors to the mediæval castles of romance and legend which crown the hills along the Rhine near Coblenz. International Film Service.

Major General Leonard Wood, one of America's finest soldiers, wearing the Distinguished Service Medal awarded him for his splendid services in furthering the realization of America's great army war programme. Paul Thompson.

Our greatest naturalist, John Burroughs, celebrating his eighty-second birthday with his customary wood-sawing stunt. Rising every morning at 6, Mr. Burroughs puts in a vigorous outdoor day which belies his fourscore years. Keystone View.

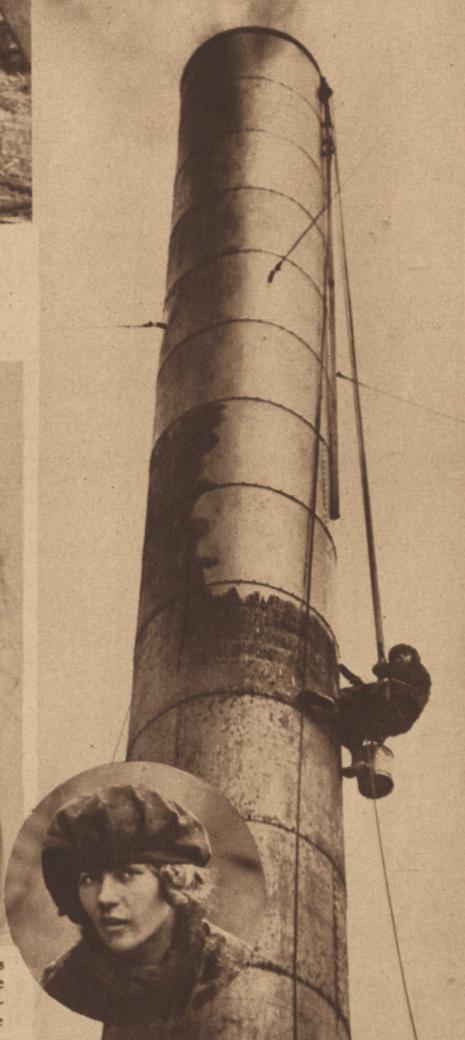

Appealing infant members of the wolf tribe raised by Jacques Suzanne, noted French explorer, who has transplanted a corner of the Great Northwest to his estate, forty-five miles from Broadway. International Film Service.

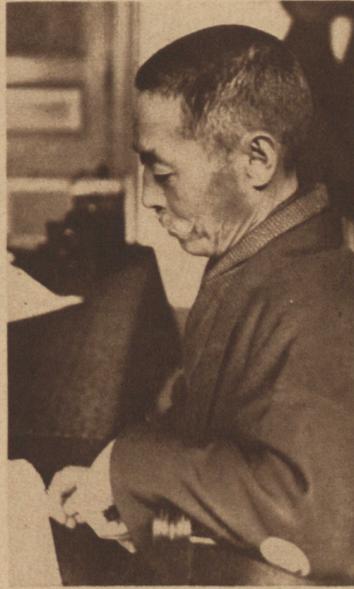

Captain C. T. Vogelgesang, commanding the newest and greatest of U. S. warships, the superdreadnought Idaho, which will take its place among the older wardogs in the great naval review in New York Harbor. International Film Service.

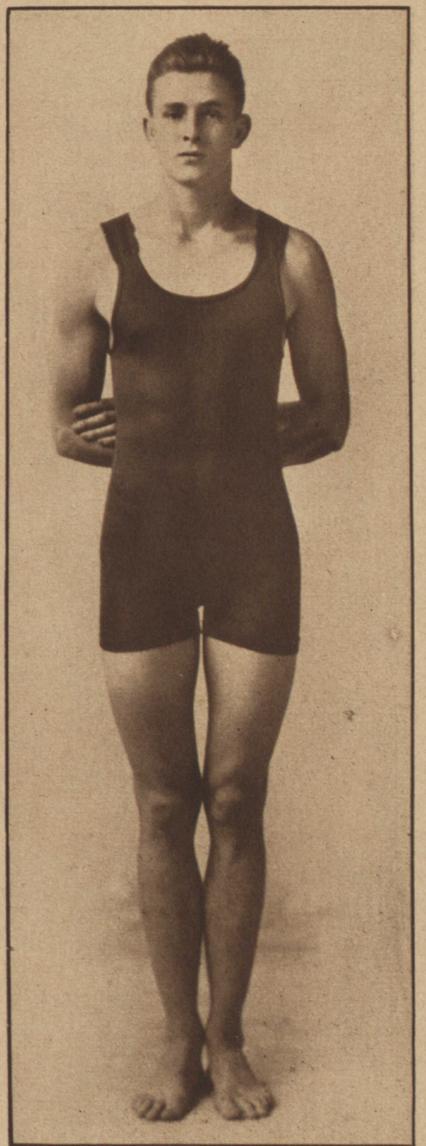

Golden curls, wistful big eyes and all, but it's not Mary. She's a Scotch lassie, Miss Carrie Shand, of Dundee, daughter of a cinema proprietor—and some day she will be a star like her famous double. Paul Thompson.

Embracing her husband's profession, Mrs. Myrtle Kennett, sixteen-year-old bride, is a fearless steeplejill. The trail of the Kennetts' honeymoon is marked by smoke-stacks in shining coats of new paint. Paul Thompson.

Yukio Ozaki, ex-Mayor of Tokio, the distinguished head of the democratic movement in Japan, who has just arrived in this country to study the labor problem, with the end in view of establishing a labor party in Japan. K. Adachi.

—Edwin Binney, twenty-year-old Yale swimming champion, who has established a new intercollegiate record for 50 yards, having achieved the distance in three races recently in 25 seconds flat.

Left—The Shukuhachi (pronounce a sneeze and you have it), a weird Japanese musical instrument whose distinguishing feature is the extinguishing of its musician. Keystone View.