© Emil Fuchs.

The First Lesson

By Emil Fuchs

This intimate little group in bronze represents one of those scenes which are the flowers in our Garden of Life. We all have the eyes to perceive them, but the means of expression are given to but few. Emil Fuchs is perhaps best known in this country as a painter of portraits. No doubt the two arts combined supplement each other — the paintings gain in construction, while the cold marble and bronze acquire what we would best call color.