
Courtesy of Rudolf Lesch, New York City

"On the Beach"

After Virginia Demont-Breton

When the mercury starts hitting the high spots, when heat waves shimmer on the asphalt and everybody is saying, "It's not the heat I mind; it's the humidity!"—that's when the Atlantic Ocean comes into its own. These three wise young men of Gotham have the right idea. They are going to sea in a bowl and if the waves are much bolder their dip will be colder.

AMERICAN LITHOGRAPHIC CO. N.Y.