

"The Three Patriarchs" which silently and majestically stand guard over the entrance to the Zion Canyon, that Utah wonderland which has just been made a great National Park. Named many years ago by Brigham Young when the old Mormons discovered these towering sentinels of the mighty multi-colored gorge, they have weathered the storms of hundreds of centuries.

Photo Courtesy National Parks Assn.

The oldest opera house in America was destroyed by fire on December 4. For sixty years this old landmark of New Orleans has been the social center of the South. Here Adelina Patti made her American debut. Priceless bits of scenery painted by artists long dead and imported from Paris were destroyed.

International.

A recent photograph of Victoria, Spain's handsome Queen, and her second son, Don Jaime, taken on the roof of Kensington Palace, London. This young Prince is remarkably popular, having won the hearts of the people by his friendly, democratic behavior, somewhat in the same manner as his cousin, the Prince of Wales. It is said he is even better liked than his older brother, the heir to the throne.

International.

"Getting on my toes and pumping every ounce in my nervous system to the bursting point, I crashed my right full on the point of the Englishman's jaw." is how Georges Carpentier, popular idol of France, describes his knockout of Joe Beckett in just 74 seconds in London for the heavyweight championship of Europe.

Kadet & Herbert.

John Bull's new super-submarine, the M-1, which is the most powerfully armed submersible possessed by any navy in the world. Britain's new sub mounts on the forward deck a 12-inch gun, by far the heaviest bit of artillery yet attempted in this phase of naval construction.

International.