

Letter from Gertrude McCurdy Hubbard to Alexander Graham Bell, August 20, 1875, with transcript

18 (Friday August 20th, 1875.) (Copy) Friday Morning. Dear Mr. Bell:

Mabel came home to us last night most unexpectedly. She is well but tired. I cannot tell you how nearly we lost our darling in the undertow on Wednesday.

Shall we see you as usual on Sunday afternoon?

Very sincerely yours, Gertrude M. Hubbard.
