Oh! her presence could on ev'ry star,
 New brilliancy confer,
 And I thought the flow'rs were sweeter far,
 When they were seen with her:
 Her brow was calm as sleeping sea,
 Her glance was full o' joy,
 And oh! her heart was true to me,
 Her Highland minstrel boy.
 Oh! her presence could &c. &c.

I hae play'd to Ladies fair and gray,
 In mony a southron hall,
 But there was one far - far away,
 A world above them all,
 And now, tho weary years have fled,
 I think wi' mournful joy,
 Upon the time when Mary wed
 Her Highland minstrel boy.
 I hae played &c. &c.
