THE AMERICAN JUVENILE SPEAKER AND SONGSTER, FOR DAY SCHOOLS.

BY C. A. FYKE.

HELMICK'S AMERICAN JUVENILE SPEAKER AND SONGSTER has been prepared with a design to supply the teachers of the Public Schools of America, with a variety of useful matter for daily use, Friday afternoon exercises and exhibitions.

On examining the work it will be found to contain four distinct departments. The first—the musical department—contains 40 pages of day-school songs, written by some of the best song writers in the country, and adapted to all grades of pupils. A few songs have been adapted to old and familiar tunes, so that every teacher will find songs with which they are familiar on first introducing the book. Exercise songs for the little folks is an attractive feature of this department, and no teacher should be without this work.

The second department contains a large number of juvenile declamations, which were selected with great care and with a view to please as well as instruct. TEACHERS will find, in this department, what they have often wanted, namely, choice selections of poetry for afternoon exercises and for entertainments at the close of school.

The third department contains juvenile dialogues as well as those adapted to Grammar and High School Grades. They were carefully prepared and none were inserted that did not possess highly entertaining features. None of them are long and all may be performed in any school-room, and on any occasion, without any special preparation of stage or scenery, a feature which is very generally overlooked in the preparation of dialogues, and which makes them valuable on all occasions.

The fourth department is designed to furnish the teacher with short paragraphs and poetical quotations, containing choice thoughts for memorizing. This branch of education is becoming deservedly popular among our best teachers, who realize that any teaching is too narrow which measures the education of the pupil by his business necessities. His happiness as a man and his worth as a citizen must be taken into account, and we must lay up in the pupil's mind a store of goodly thoughts which shall be a living treasure of knowledge, from which he may draw some comfort, guidance and sympathy.

HELMICK'S AMERICAN SPEAKER AND SONGSTER is then a Multum in parvo school book and no teacher of whatever grade should be without it.

If you want enlivening songs to stir up the drowsy pupil, get HELMICK'S AMERICAN SPEAKER AND SONGSTER.

If you want comic and entertaining dialogues and declamations for all occasions, get HELMICK'S AMERICAN SPEAKER AND SONGSTER.

If you want to be up with the best living teachers of the country, and teach your pupils ennobling thoughts, inspiring them with a love for their country and homes, the good and the beautiful, get HELMICK'S AMERICAN SPEAKER AND SONGSTER.

Sample copies will be sent by mail to any address in the United States or Canada upon receipt of price, either in cash or postage stamps.
