Nell, please write and say that you'll start for home to-day, For poor pride keeps her a-way from that dear old home to-day, For her fa-ther has for-giv-en you at last, And he longs to see you too, for he name the vil-lage folks link'd with dis-grace, And they tried to wreck her life, for poor cre-scen-do.
al-ways speaks of you" But poor Nell wrote while the tears were fall-ing fast:
Nell was not his wife, And she thought of all while tears roll'd down her face.
Valse Chorus.
If I on-ly could blot out the past If I on-ly could all forget. And the sweet-heart of old had his love nev-er told, If he and I nev-er had met. I'd be home with the old folks to-day — But for me now the die is cast My heart oft' doth yearn and I'd like to re-turn, If I on-ly could blot out the past.

colla voce.
