THE DOG.

Written and Composed by HARRY GATES.

Arranged by W. A. SANDER.

INTRODUCTION.

Moderato.

1. There was a friend of mine, bought a bull ca - nine, It was a dog,..... a lit - tle
2. I found his pride in life, was not his wife, It was the dog,..... the lit - tle dog,..... Of this dog he was proud, and he sang his prais - es loud, It was a dog,..... He could - 'nt pay his rent, for his mon - ey he had spent, Yes, for the dog,..... a lit - tle dog..... He brought him home to the dog,..... the lit - tle dog..... The brute he got in a house one night, the fam - i - ly and ser-vants they went off in - to a fright, They had yard close by, goose and chick - en feath-ers all a - round be - gan to fly, Tho' the cause to laugh when the sun shone bright, It was the dog,..... the lit - tle dog,..... fam - ly starv'd, who had chick - en pie? Why, the dog,..... the lit - tle dog,.....

CHORUS.

1. Some one came o'er the fence, then the cir - cus did com - mence,..... They
 2. With an - guish he did wail, saw a sight that made him pale,..... What found a pair of pants full of tears and rents, It was the dog,..... the lit - tle dog..... think you he has of - fered now for sale? Why, the dog,..... the yal - ler dog.....

3 On the quiet, one night, my friend got tight,
 That was a dog, another dog.
 As quiet as a mouse, who was it watched the house?
 It was the dog, the other dog.
 The lights were out, all within was dark,
 No one, he thought, would know that he had been out on a lark,
 Who awoke the folks with a joyous bark?
 Why, the dog, the little dog.

CHORUS. His wife was on the stair, hit his eye and pulled his hair,
 What grabbed him hard and fast where he'd pants to spare?
 It was the dog, the little dog.

4 Pretty girls he'd admire, and he soon did tire
 Of the dog, the nasty dog.
 He loved the serving maid, as about the house she strayed,
 Without the dog, the little dog.
 When he'd a chance his arms were placed
 Very lovingly about his darling's little waist,
 What gave them away just as they embraced?
 It was the dog, the little dog.

CHORUS. Oh, how the wife did cry, and the girl for life did fly,
 My friend has bought a gun,—do you know who'll die?
 Why, the dog, the little dog.
