Spoken.— What is more delightful, then having a nice new dress and a love of a bonnet? to go to church or a picnic with a handsome young beau, and see the girls getting mad with envy, and the men run perfectly crazy about you.

Spoken after 2nd Verse. Oh it is such splendid fun to have a string of beaux. There's Capt. Jinks tries to take you by storm, here's poor dapper Augustus sighs of love, in a Cottage, while old widower Grampus tries to bribe you with silks and diamonds, Ai'nt that exquisite!

CHORUS.

Oh! I'm full of fun and glee, I've a beau, he loves me true, and I, I love him too;

I'm as gay, as gay can be, No bonnie lass is happier than me than me. 8<sup>va</sup>

I delight in NEW FASHIONS AND CLOTHES,
Have no objection WHATEVER TO BEAUX,
And tho' true at heart I FLIRT NOW AND THEN,
For they are such darlings, those naughty men.
Delightful are our beaux.

Spoken: Oh what would we girls do without somebody to love.— Yes we love and sigh, then we quarrel a little with our sweethearts, only to make every thing up again and to love each other harder than ever before.

CHORUS.

All girls expect to WED SOON OR LATE,
When my turn comes I WONT BE AFRAID,
But I'll say "Yes," and NAME THE DAY,
And be as a cricket, happy and gay—
For I'll have caught my beau.

Spoken: But one thing I want; My husband must let me do as I please. He must pet and fondle me, and never contradict me, and especially never cause me to stop singing.

CHORUS.

* On the Stage Omit this Afterlude and play the Waltz to dance round.
