PREFACE

This checklist of holograph music manuscripts, first editions, and autograph correspondence of Franz Liszt reflects the richness of the Library's primary research material for the study of the life and works of Liszt. That our manuscripts, first editions, and correspondence of Liszt are of such a quality and quantity as to warrant the compilation of this checklist merits our expression of special gratitude to Edward N. Waters, former Chief of the Music Division and eminent Liszt scholar. Our wealth of Liszt material has come largely through his interest and effort.

One important means for such extraordinary development has been the generosity of Dannie N. and James H. Heineman, from whose friendship the Music Division has also benefited in many other ways. Nearly thirty years ago they established a rich and growing archive of music rarities that is now known as the Heineman Foundation Collection in Honor of Edward N. Waters. Another generous donor, Harry Rosenthal, was responsible for the acquisition of a major collection of Liszt letters (many of them unpublished) and a number of holograph music manuscripts.

The checklist is the result of the dedicated work of several people. We are particularly indebted to Dr. Charles Suttoni for his expert assistance over a number of years in the compilation of the portion of the list that is concerned with Liszt's correspondence. We also wish to acknowledge the following members of our staff for their invaluable contributions as bibliographers for this publication: Anne E. McLean, Lloyd A. Pinchback, and Kate Rivers.

There are three major sections of this publication. Listed in Part I are music manuscripts in the hand of Franz Liszt. These include music manuscripts entirely or partially in Liszt's hand as well as printed editions with Liszt's holograph annotations. Part II includes the Division's printed Liszt music materials that are cataloged as first editions. The entries in Parts I and II are arranged in the order in which they appear in the works list at the end of the Liszt chapter in Early Romantic Masters I (The New Grove Composers Biography Series), by Humphrey Searle, substantially revised by Sharon Winklhofer (New York: W.W. Norton, 1985). Part III provides an inventory of the autograph Liszt correspondence in the Music Division, arranged chronologically, followed by an alphabetical index to the correspondents. Please see the introductory matter at the beginning of each section for more specific information about its contents and arrangement.

Two appendices appear at the end of the checklist. The first lists alphabetically the music titles found in Parts I and II, followed by the appropriate Searle citations. The second is an index of composers other than Liszt who are represented in the arrangements and transcriptions described herein; again, the Searle numbers follow.

In an effort to consolidate and preserve these materials, the Music Division has prepared archival microfilm of them; this checklist also serves as a finding aid for the film. The microfilm shelf numbers appear at the beginning of each of the three sections of this checklist. Copies (either microfilm or paper photoreproductions) may be ordered from the Library's Photoduplication Service (Washington, D.C. 20540).

PART I. THE MUSIC MANUSCRIPTS

This section lists the Music Division's music manuscripts of Franz Liszt. Included are manuscripts entirely in Liszt's hand, as well as other manuscript and printed scores with Liszt's holograph annotations. The entries are arranged in the order in which they appear in the Searle/Winklhofer works catalog. Five items appear at the end of this section without Searle numbers. The first two are arrangements of Liszt works by other composers; they are included here because they contain additions and corrections in Liszt's hand. The third is a Liszt holograph arrangement not listed in the Searle/Winklhofer catalog. The last two items are unidentified Liszt holograph fragments.

Sixty-three of these items are cataloged in the ML96 class, which is the Library's designation for holograph music manuscripts that are not part of any specific collection in the Music Division. Twenty-one are found in the Rosenthal Collection, while ten are located in the Heineman Foundation Collection in Honor of Edward N. Waters. One is part of the Gisella Selden-Goth Collection; one is from the John Davis Batchelder Collection. Shelf locations appear at the conclusion of each citation.

The microfilm shelf number for the music manuscripts is Microfilm 86/20,225 <Mus>.

It appears that the manuscript identified by Searle/Winklhofer as held by the Library of Congress would be more correctly identified as the first edition of an arrangement for piano, four hands by Mihály Mosonyi, with numerous changes and corrections in Liszt's hand. This edition is listed and filmed as WoS #1.

[Historische ungarische Bildnisse. No. 5. Franz Deák]

Searle/Winklhofer's statement that the manuscripts for Nos. 1, 3 & 5 are held by the Library of Congress appears to have been based on the numbering of the individual pieces as given in Grove V (London: Macmillan, 1954). However, in Searle/Winklhofer's new works list, the old numbers 1, 3 & 5 become 1, 4 & 3, respectively. Thus, LC holds a manuscript of No. 4 and not No. 5.

PART II. THE FIRST EDITIONS

This section lists those printed Liszt music materials that have been cataloged as first editions. In the early part of this century, the Library of Congress created a classification number for first editions of important composers. At that time, it was decided that the term "first edition" should be broadened from its literal meaning to include publications which were the first editions in their respective countries. Thus, some of the publications listed in this section are not, in fact, first editions; further, some works are represented by two different "first edition" publications. Items not cataloged as first editions have not been included here.

The entries in this section are arranged in the order in which they appear in the Searle/Winklhofer catalog. Two items appear at the end without Searle numbers. The first is a set of piano arrangements mentioned by Searle/Winklhofer but never assigned a unique number. The second is a set of transcriptions of Liszt works not identifiable from the Searle/Winklhofer list (possibly by August Horn).

Two hundred thirty-eight scores are cataloged in the M3.3 class, which is the Library's designation for first editions. Twenty-five are found in the Heineman Foundation Collection in Honor of Edward N. Waters, and four are part of the Rosenthal Collection. Shelf locations appear at the conclusion of each citation.

The microfilm shelf number for the first editions is Microfilm 86/20,226 <Mus>.

First edition score, with Liszt's holograph markings in pencil.

Originally for piano solo; Liszt's piano solo arrangement is based on his arrangement for piano and orchestra (S367).

This publication seems intended as a piano part for the piano and orchestra version of this work; however, the score also contains the work's orchestral sections in piano reduction, as well as alternate versions of the piano and orchestra sections reduced for one piano, thus providing a performable piano solo version of the work.

PART III. THE CORRESPONDENCE

This section comprises the Music Division's autograph correspondence of Franz Liszt. The first and largest part of this section lists the dated correspondence, in chronological order. It is followed by a brief list of undated correspondence and a small group of miscellaneous items with some Liszt association.

Each piece in the inventory is identified by item number and collection location. Notes and publication information are provided where appropriate. Keys to the collection locations and published sources precede the inventory, and an alphabetical index to correspondents follows it.

One hundred ten of these items are from the Rosenthal Collection. Eighty have been cataloged in the ML95 class, which is the Library's designation for autograph letters of individual composers that are not part of any other specific collection in the Music Division. Fifty-one are part of the Heineman Foundation Collection in Honor of Edward N. Waters. Several other collections are each represented by a smaller number of items.

The microfilm shelf number for the correspondence is Microfilm 86/20,227 <Mus>.

POST SCRIPTUM

The body of primary research material for the study of the life and works of Franz Liszt in the collections of the Library of Congress has grown steadily over a period of many years into its present proportions. Even as this checklist was in production, the growth has continued. The newly-acquired Moldenhauer Archives in the Library of Congress boasts two Liszt holograph music manuscripts and ten autograph letters. Recent purchases have included three music manuscripts and four additional letters. Regrettably, these acquisitions have come too late for inclusion in this checklist. Inquiries regarding this material should be addressed to the Music Division of the Library of Congress.
