VINCENT PRICE, DYAN CANNON ARE "DANNY KAYE SHOW" GUESTS JAN. 13

Vincent Price is seen as both an evil prime minister and a dentist when he and singer Dyan Cannon are the guest artists on "The Danny Kaye Show" Wednesday, Jan. 13 (10:00-11:00 PM, PST) on the CBS Television Network.

Danny Kaye opens the show with the song "Triplets." In the opening comedy sketch Kaye portrays his painfully shy shoe salesman character, Jerome, who must visit a dentist. Vincent Price plays the dentist.

Dyan Cannon sings "Come Rain, Come Shine" and "Too Long at the Fair."

Tony Charmoli presents his dancers in a jazz number titled "Variations in Jazz."

Harvey Korman joins Kaye and Price in a sketch, set around 1870 in Europe, titled "Days of Wine and Schnitzel." Price is the evil Prime Minister and Korman a general in the mythical but proud country of Ptomania. The pair want to marry their bibulous Prince Rudolph the Red Nosed to a princess from another country. Kaye portrays Prince Rudolph and also Fritz Hammerschlogger, handyman to the crown and a lookalike to the Prince.

Kaye closes the show with the song "I Like Flying."
