ROMAN TOTENBERG has been hailed as a superb violinist all over the world. A child prodigy, Totenberg made his debut as a soloist with the Warsaw Philharmonic at the age of eleven. He has since performed with all the principal orchestras of Europe and with such distinguished American orchestras as the New York Philharmonic and the Boston Symphony. Besides his concert activities, Totenberg now holds the position of Professor of Music at Boston University.

SOULIMA STRAVINSKY, eminent piano recitalist, is well known throughout the country for his numerous performances with Mr. Totenberg. The two artists have toured each season for a number of years presenting sonata recitals. Mr. Stravinsky is currently a faculty member of the University of Illinois School of Music.
