Broth- er Tom- my joined the arm- y when the war be- gan Tom- my says the Tom- my says the arm- y is the on- ly place to eat There's e- nough for arm- y is the place for ev- 'ry man, Tho' at first, the arm- y life may ev- 'ry- one and bread that's made of wheat, Ev- 'ry morn, would you be- lieve, you strike you rath- er strange When pay day rolls a- round you'll find there's hard- ly an- y change.

 break- fast right in bed Well if you do be- lieve it you can bet your brains are dead.

Chorus

You get used to it, — af- ter a while, — You get used to it — and learn to smile, —
 You get used to it, — af- ter a while, — You get used to it — and learn to smile, —

They wake you up each morn-ing when the stars are shin-ing bright, And it's just a-bout the time you used to You're ach-ing for a fight oh! how you long to meet the Hun, Then they put you in the kitch-en, where you kiss your girl 'good-night,' But you get used to it — af-ter a-while — And you get ac-cus-tomed nev-er see a gun. But you get used to it — af-ter a-while — And you get ac-cus-tomed to the arm-y style — The can-cens sell a lot of stuff, that looks the same as beer — You to the arm-y style — You get a mask and then you drill for gas at-tacks all day — But buy your-self a bot-tle and your smiles all dis-ap-pear, And you won-der where they ev-er get the when you're in the kitch-en, peel-ing on-ions for a stay, Just the time you need it most they come and nerve to call it near? But you get used to it, — af-ter a-while. — You get while. — take the mask a-way. But you get used to it, — af-ter a-while. — You get while. —
