YOUR LAD AND MY LAD

Your lad and my lad, and oh, the colors streaming!
Blue eyes and brown eyes— and yonder lies the way;
Strong heart and true heart, and oh, the faces beaming—
Your lad and my lad are marching by to-day.
Your lad and my lad, and oh, the hearts that love you;
Your joy and my joy, and oh, the hearts that yearn;
Your heart and my heart— the colors float above you,
Your lad and my lad— who never may return.

Your lad and my lad, and oh, the drums a-beating!
Brown eyes and blue eyes, and oh, the way is wide!
True heart and strong heart, go forward to the meeting—
Your lad and my lad are marching side by side!
Your boy and my boy— press onward, never fearing;
Your life and my life— God keep them clean and true!
Your lad and my lad, march on, the dawn is nearing,
Your hope and my hope— the old "Red, White and Blue!"

Your lad and my lad, and oh, the bugles calling!
Blue eyes and brown eyes, and oh, the way is long!
Strong heart and true heart, smile on, though tears are falling;
Your lad and my lad— and soon the victor's song!
God of the nations! we give them to Thy keeping;
Be Thou their comfort when come the hours of pain;
Thy lad and my lad— in waking or in sleeping—
God! if it be Thy will, O bring them home again.
