I'm going to be a sol-dier boy and I'm one of Un-cle Sam-my's boys I'll march in Com-phy A— When I'm on dress pa-rade— you'll hear the Cap-tain have you un-der-stand— And we'll un-furl the stars— and stripes in ev-'ry say land I'm the pride of the Arm-y and I'm not a-fraid to When we get on the fir-ing line our guns will end the fight— And day and night I'll try to drive the en-e-my out of war— We'll shoot so straight at ev-'ry shot that it will be quick-ly

OUR LATEST MUSICAL OFFERINGS

My Little Yellow Rose

A Dainty Ballad.
Beautiful Lyrics.
A Charming Melody.
This Number will be popular 50 years hence.

'Mid The Green Fields of Georgia

(Where the Watermelons Grow)
An Old Southern Plantation Song. The greatest ever written. The Melody has a sweet, tuneful swing that carries you off your feet. Several melons cut here.

I Want Some One To Love Me When I'm Old and Gray

A Beautiful, Sympathetic Song, with touching Lyrics and a Melody that will last until Judgment Day.

Yankee Soldier Boy

A Hip, Hip, Hooray March Song. Great Lyrics. Melody that makes your blood tingle. You'll feel like shouldering a musket and go gunning for the Kaiser. All other "Over" Songs don't hold a candle-light to this Yankee Soldier Boy Song.

How'd You Like to Have A Baby Like Me

Now you're tickled in the right spot. This is a song that you can sing in your "Parlor, Bedroom and Kitchen."

The old fellows in the baldheaded row will sit up straight in their seats and take cognizance of what's going on. A great song for your Act, and you'll have some Act if you sing this one. Get on the Path and get a Copy. We have several other ascenders to fly—songs that will make old-timers take to the saloons for solace to their thoughts.

Now is the time to get the sleep out of your peepers, if you're wise, and don't let other guys get your size. Your money buys these catchy songs, if you call, write or wire to the undersigned.
