Words and music by DOROTHY M. VERRILL.

THE ALLIES.

This world has rung with war's alarms-
Our sons have cried, To arms! To arms!
And gone forth from every clime
Perchance to die - a death sublime
But firm and staunch we're bound together
And no thing this tie can sever
While our motto ere shall be
For God and Liberty
Then we'll fight and win the Victory!

Chorus-

Then our boys will come back from this war
They've fought as men ne'er fought before
When they've crushed the German giant
And they've slain the evil tyrant
Then our boys will come back from this war.

Old England still doth rule the sea
And France still guards her fleur-de-lis
While Belgium stands in Flanders field
And she, thank God, will never yield!
Then Uncle Sam extends a hand
His sons go forth on sea and land
To fight for Right and Liberty
And fighting win the Victory.

Chorus-

So our boys will come back from this war
They've fought as men ne'er fought before
They will crush the German giant
And will slay the evil tyrant
Then our boys will come back from this war.
