"For Democracy.Home,And You!" By Eva Hunt Northrup.

1

When the sun gentlysinks mid its azure and gold;
And the Star of the Evening the shadows makes bold;
Then the home one they gather and whisper good night
With a pray'r to their God for the ones who must fight;
Ah tis then we can hear in the far reaching wind
The heart cry of the millions who fight for mankind.

CHORUS.

We are true to our Flag,yes,whatever the test!
And no matter what come we will all do our best;
We are fighting the demons who strive to undo
Our love of Democracy,Home and you.

2

For the loyal and brave oh they never shall die!
Tho their bodies may fade still their deeds live for aye;
Yes,their deeds will be written in blood and in gold,
In that story of freedom that soon shall be told;
With Democracy's banners furled there neath the sun,
And with God on our side,then the victory's won.
