"If Uncle Sam Was To Lose The Flag" By D.O. Morrison.

Oh, come in boys, and join the march for Uncle Sammy' calls;
 Let's take the lead, in time of need; to face the cannon balls;
 The girls will sing as we pass by "There go our soldiers true"
 So heed the call of Uncle Sam--The Old Red, White, and Blue.

2

What would this old world be to us if we should lose the flag?
 If we should be invaded and a foe should dare to brag?
 Come, be a soldier, one and all, we'll make the world salam
 To Uncle Sam--y's soldiers and to grand old Uncle Sam.

3

Across the sea we'll sailing go to Pershing and the bunch;
 We'll lick the Kaiser then we'll go to Berlin for our lunch;
 We'll hold a great big jubilee--if we should get the chance;
 We're going out for Uncle Sam to do or die in France.

CHORUS.

It's the time of need, so give heed, give heed; we must let no foe brag;
 What would this old world be to us if Uncle Sam should lose the flag?
