"The Kaiser In Exile" Mrs.M.M.Donehugh.

1

To be exiled from Germany the poor old Kaiser said,
I may as well be dead said he as from his land he fled;
He wont kill any millions now,he seeks his life instead,
For we have got the Kaiser and his dogs of war are dead.

2

To be exiled from Germany the poor old Kaiser said,
Good bye to fame,good by to crown,I might as well be dead;
He did cause untold miseries but now his pow'rs fled,
For we have got the Kaiser, he might just as well be dead.

3

To be exiled from Germany,in horror must have said,
In that Dutch castle where I hide,i'm prisoner,instead;
He thought he'd rule the whole wide world,his iron's turned to lead,
For we have got the Kaiser,and he's exiled,almost dead.

4

For crowning laurels did he fight,but all he got instead
Isexile into Holland,with all nations want his head;
His mudrrous plots failed one and all,and right has won instead,
For we have got the Kaiser and he might as well be dead.

CHORUS.

We have got the Kaiser-the world demoralizer-
He's sadder now,and wiser,in exile
