"Our Flag Across The Sea" By Chas. E. Moore.

The Stars and Stripes float proudly in that land where Freedom rings;
 In the land where stand the brave it always proudly is unfurled;
 And there within its silken folds bright memories to them bring;
 With the Allies there it gayly waves in honor to the world.

CHORUS.

For the pride of the nation is wrapped in its folds;
 The price dearly paid, but was not bought with gold;
 With Justice--peace--its standard, where'er it is unfurled;
 Thus shall it ever war undaunted to the world.

2

Around the Starry Banner, will the Nation rally, true;
 And to ally with the loyal friends so true, of liberty;
 Her sons shall never falter neath the Old Red, White and Blue;
 But will bear Old Glory with them as they go across the sea.
