"There's A Star In Old Glory For You And For Me!" By C.F. Manspeaker .

1

There's a place in this wide world, that I ever will hold dear;
is the land of childhood days; tis the place so free from care;
It was there that I was, old in the dear old days of school;
Of a star in dear Old Glory--for me and for you.

CHORUS.

There's a star in Old Glory for me and for you;
And each one tells a story about our freedom, too;
Tells of men long ago, who were loyal and true;
And put Stars in Old Glory for me and for you.

2

In New England tho you live; or upon the great wide plains;
Or in Dixie, way down South; it will ever be the same;
For our dear Columbia, all united men are we;
There's a star in Dear Old Glory--for you and for me.
