"We'll Be Comrades Working Hard And Fast" By Jos. Henry.

1

There's a question, who will answer? Time will tell the tale, some day;
May the Dutch by Berlin orders sank all vessels in their way;
And their rulers seemed delighted; thought their plans were just and bright
When the U. S. Said: "Don't do it--" then they started up the fight.

CHORUS.

We'll be comrades working hard and fast when their culture has fallen low;
When it's withered and dying at the last, we'll be there to see the show;
For we're in t is thing to a finish, tho it costs us money men and pain;
And the noise of battles will not be hushed till Peace rules the earth agai

2

Our grand boys they are in training, soon they'll cross the ocean deep;
When they land on yonder border, other comrades they will greet;
With the help of all together, neath the old Red, White, and Blue;
They will settle all the trouble, aene other hands could do
