Andante marcia:

Handwritten musical notation for the first instrument, likely Flute. The staff is in treble clef with a 3/4 time signature. It begins with a series of eighth notes, followed by a half note, and ends with a quarter note.

Handwritten musical notation for the second instrument, likely Piano. The staff is in treble clef with a 3/4 time signature. It features a complex texture with many beamed notes, including sixteenth and thirty-second notes, and rests.

Handwritten musical notation for the third instrument, likely Chorus. The staff is in treble clef with a 3/4 time signature. It contains several measures of music with various note values and rests.

Three empty musical staves, each consisting of five horizontal lines, located at the bottom of the page.

"Au Revoir, France! Bonjour, United States" George M. Merchant.

1

We were glad to sail away from our grand old U. S. A.
And to fight beside you, noble France;
And we made your land our home when we got there, cross the ~~ocean~~, from
From the first day - glad to have the chance;
For a hard year and a half, over there we stood the gaff,
Till the huns they found they'd got their fill,
Of the Allies' pow'r in war, and the Yanks from foreign shores
And enough, also, of Kaiser Bill.

2

We will always bear in mind that to us you were most kind,
Yes, by all your people, we must say;
As we learned to live your way - learned to know your cities, gay -
And I know that we would like to stay!
We have not forgot your wine, nor forgot your ways to dine,
And we learned to speak your language, too;
In our hearts there is no grudge, but we're anxious, you can judge,
To be back 'neath the Red, White, and Blue.

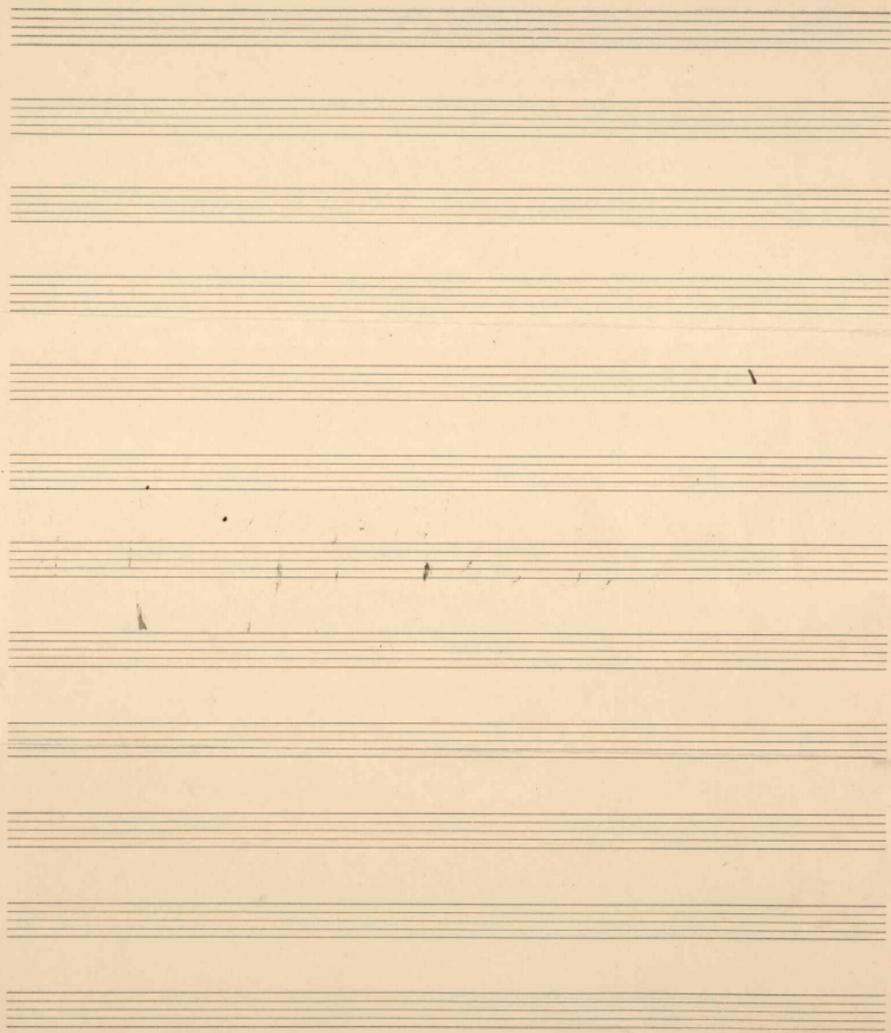

CHORUS.

Yes, we are glad to be back in America;
Back to the sweethearts that we left;
Back to our homes and our mothers,
That is an appreciated gift;
So, Au Revoir, to our good friend, France,
Bonjour, our great United States,
We were very glad to have the chance - but home life is certainly great,

Carl Fischer, New York.
