We'll be Waiting in Dixie For You

Lyrics by FRANCIS J. MORRIS

Music by EUNICE P. CHEANEY

Patetico

Vamp

Two hearts are yearn-ing For the re-turn-ing Of their no-ble boy in blue
 The shades are fall-ing Mem-o-ry re-call-ing Of their soldier boy so true

A moth-er old and gray A sweet-heart young and gay Hope and pray for They are wait-ing for the train To meet him once a-gain They hope not to him each day When the day is done and the bat-tles wait in vain Once more they em-brace they see in his bright won From his breast he takes the cherished note Its from those he does a-face That the love he has for them is de-vine From his breast he takes a dore He reads it o'er and o'er This is what his girl and moth-er wrote — note That his girl and moth-er wrote With joy he reads each and ev'-ry line —

CHORUS

We'll be wait-ing in Dix-ie for you my boy Wait-ing and long-ing for you — We feel proud and glad To have such a lad Fighting for the red white and blue — With an ar-my of soldiers like you lad In Ber-lin our flag we will view — Though you're far a - way we are wait-ing each day We'll be wait-ing in Dix-ie for you. — We'll be you. —
