

More Like America.

Words by Carl F. Brandt.

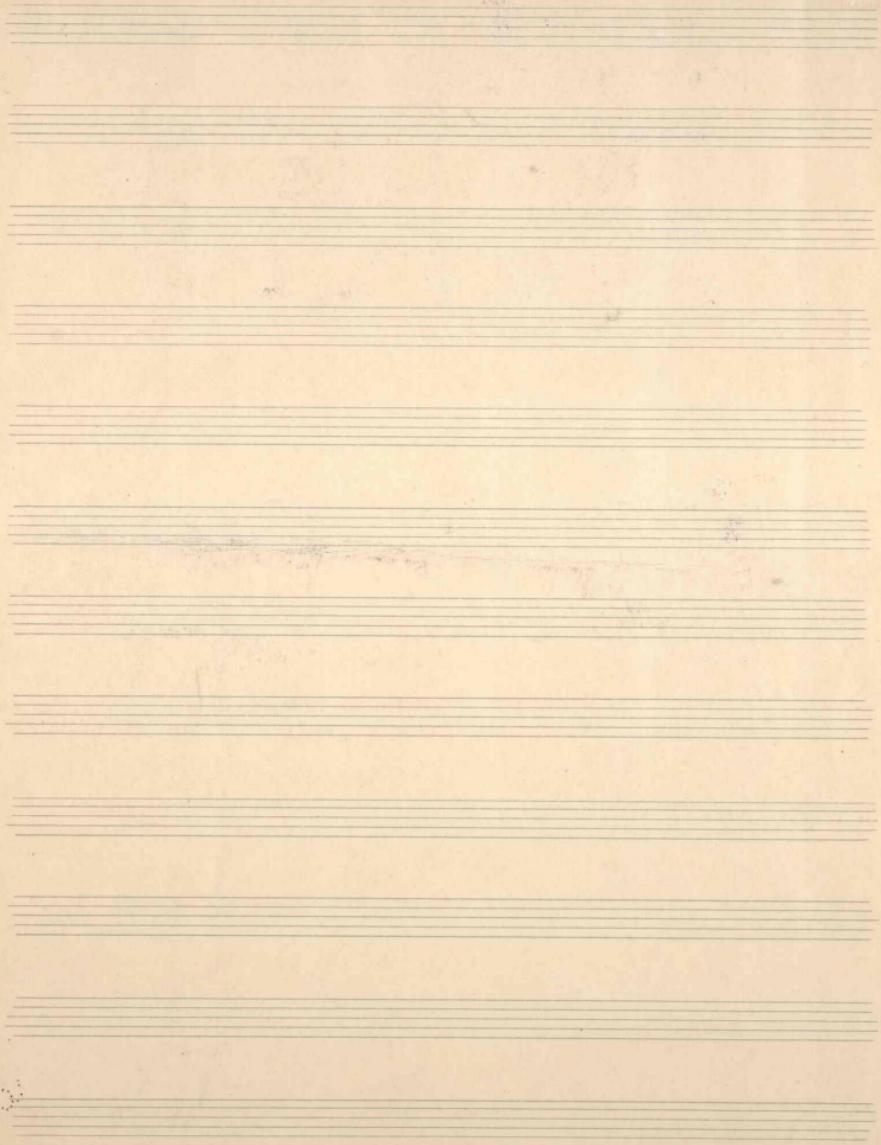

Music by Mabel Slogin-Falah

More like A-mer-i-ca, na-tions would be More of her Li-ber-ty on land and sea.

More zeal to la-bor in work of char-i-ty, More con-se-cra-tion to love an en-e-my.

Then ne-ver-more the can-nons' mouth shall roar, Man's heart is wear-ied by Chris-tian Na-tions' name.

Not a-ny more a sword will so de-voor. And the Old, Old Glo-ry, will spread a-er her fame.

MORE LIKE AMERICA

I

More like America, nations would be;
More of her Liberty, on land and sea,
More Zeal to labor in work of charity,
More consecration to love an enemy.

Chorus

Then nevermore the cannon's mouth shall roar,
Man's heart is wearied by Christian Nations' shame;
Not any more a sword will so devour,
And the Old, Old Glory, will spread afar her fame.

II

More like America, some nations aim,
More like the spirit of Washington's fame,
More Lincoln's work of freedom for the slave,
More in truth of Wilson, the natural world to save.
(Chorus)

III

More like American hearts in love for peace,
More like the Master, who bids us to cease
From sin and hate of all mankind;
For the love of God, the enemy must mind.
(Chorus)
