MARCHING THROUGH RHINELAND

Words and Music by
HAL E. GOODWIN

Tempo di Marcia

The boys are leav- ing dear old
Oh give the boys a hand as

U. S. A. They may be gone a long long time a - way For there is work in France for them to do And they will they en - train It may be long ere they come home a - gain But they are fight- ing ev' - ry sin - gle one For this, the take a chance and see it thro' Oh they have an- swered to their coun- try's call And they are leav- ing home and grand- est land be neath the sun Oh there is mar- tial mu- sic in the air And there is sound of march- ing friends and all Oh they are go - ing where the big shells fall And where the big guns boom all day.

ev' - ry - where Oh let them have the guns and ships to spare And they will see the big job through.

Where our al - lies fight- ing for home and right In the tren - ches o - ver in France to - night
Where the big guns thun - der by day and night There our al - lies bat - tle for home and right

Wea-ry of war - fare yet do - ing their share Wait for our - com - ing they'll wel - come us there Brave - ly our own boys are do - ing their share Vic - tors on o - cean, on land and in air

All the crowd who shout "Hoch der Kai - ser" when we get through why they will be wi - ser then
When at last the Jun - kers are brought to bay and their ar - mies beat - en and swopt a - way

When we go march - ing thro' Rhine - land Right in to Ber - lin then home. —
Then we'll go march - ing thro' Rhine - land Right to the Kai - ser's home town. —

CHORUS

Un - der the Lin - dens we'll meet some day Our bands will play Our flags will flutter bravely When all our war work's o - ver and done We're off to Ber - lin then home. home. —

VOICE OF FRANCE

By

HAL. E. GOODWIN

A song combining dignity and charm
and a majestic march

CHORUS

Hea - ven look down on a world all a - flame, Lend us Thy might,

Be with the lads who in Lib - er - ty's name, Go forth to fight.

Watch o - ver them in the heat of the fray, Be with their loved ones who wait far a - way,

Bring us to Peace at
